

Accountable
Now

Membership Benefits

Join the global movement of civil society organizations working towards a world that is more just, equitable, and accountable.

Accountable Now is a global membership platform that supports civil society organizations to be more transparent, responsive, impact-focused, and locally-led.

For more than 15 years, we have partnered with our members - and civil society at large - to shift power, champion equity, and embed dynamic accountability into everyday practices and processes.

What Do We Do?

We provide the tools and accompaniment organisations need to reflect, learn, grow, and deliver better, more long lasting impact.

Reflect, Learn & Grow

We provide frameworks, processes, and support (for example through our reporting and action planning, our accountability health check, or through tailored consulting and training) to ensure activities are efficient and effective and that organisations are living out their values such as responsible leadership.

Convene & Connect

We coordinate peer to peer learning and exchange and host virtual and in person events (for example through our peer advice groups, peer to peer connections or our Dynamic Accountability Dialogues) to enable exchange and collaboration including partnerships on thematic areas including climate, youth, and more.

Amplify & Advance

We document and share good practices, case studies, and stories (for example through our Good Practice Library, publications and podcasts, or growing social media community) to collectively advance dynamic accountability and key agendas such as locally led action and intersectional climate justice).

Here are some of the ways we have supported civil society organisations to live out their values and advance towards a world where all people and the planet can thrive.

During the YWCA's 2023 World Council, Accountable Now served as one of four complaints focal points, ready to review any incoming complaints in collaboration with the feedback procedure team. We provided advice on how to enhance the complaint process, supporting the World YWCA to run a smooth, and participant-oriented event. We have also delivered an in-person session in 2019 on improving operational compliance and accountability across the movement.

Our 2022-23 virtual Dynamic Accountability Dialogues convened more than 400 practitioners - representing over 175 organisations and 65 countries around the world - for conversations on diversity and inclusion, people-powered accountability in climate finance, shifting power, and more.

In 2022, we co-edited an issue of the 'southasiadisaster.net' journal (from the All India Disaster Mitigation Institute) featuring a diverse set of articles (including from several of our members) on the topic of environmental accountability.

What Is Dynamic Accountability?

Our dynamic accountability approach is a people-powered approach to accountability that goes beyond M&E, due-diligence and compliance.

Dynamic accountability is both a process and practice of continuous learning and improvement centered on inclusive, meaningful engagement and building strong partnerships grounded in two-way feedback, equity, and trust.

Reporting to Accountable Now yielded important insights into how we could enhance our accountability practices and continue to progress on our dynamic accountability journey. It helped facilitate institutional commitments for improvement and provided a framework for tracking and reporting on these commitments - in a way that mirrored the openness and transparency that we advocate for in the sector. As well, Accountable Now provided a safe space to unpack difficult accountability challenges with peers, which sounds small but was really powerful for us.

The 12 Accountability Commitments

Through our dynamic accountability approach, plus our reporting framework which is underpinned by 12 accountability commitments that incorporate bold, progressive pledges for CSOs to support people-driven work, justice and equity, a healthy planet and much more.
